One Medicine for humans and animals

How your gift will make a difference

Humanimal Trust is a Godalming-based charity established in 2014 to drive collaboration between vets, doctors and researchers so that humans and animals can benefit equally and more quickly from scientific progress.

We seek to achieve this by facilitating learning from naturally occurring conditions rather than from experimental animal models, helping them eventually to become obsolete.

This is One Medicine.

Your support could help us:

- Increase awareness and improve understanding of One Medicine - from the highest levels of human and veterinary medicine to the general public.
- Facilitate collaboration between human and veterinary medicine – for example, by expanding and promoting our global Humanimal Hub – an online forum and interactive space where leading minds in human and animal medicine meet, collaborate and share knowledge and research.
- Inspire learners through our education programmes for all ages from primary school children to adult learners.
- Fund and share the learning from One Medicine research, helping both humans and animals to benefit from research into cancer, infection control and antibiotic resistance, bone and joint disease, brain and spine disease and regenerative medicine.
- Influence improvements in policy and practice, bringing together the best minds from all disciplines to develop and support best practice in One Medicine .

We receive no funds from Government. Everything we do is funded by the generosity of individuals or organisations like yours, motivated to make a difference to the future health of humans and animals alike. Will you join them ?

Could you help give both humans and animals the opportunity for better health?

Solicitors Regulation Authority's (SRA) rules* and the Council of the Institute of Chartered Accountants for England & Wales (ICAEW) regulations** allow practices to donate unclaimed client funds to charities.

If you hold funds in dormant accounts, would you pass them on to Humanimal Trust to help support our work to bring vets, doctors and researchers together to collaborate and share their knowledge for the benefit of both humans and animals; to help us fund ground-breaking One Medicine research; to expand our One Medicine education programmes for learners of all ages from primary to higher education - or more?

We can provide a suitable indemnity for individual client amounts exceeding £500.
